

If Tracy Tichenor's '60 Caddy custom didn't make you break into a sweat when you saw it, you weren't alive! Created from a clapped-out abandoned hulk in just four months, the mile-long beauty was shaved clean, tossed onto the pavement with bags, covered in House of Kolors Lime Time pearl, treated to a tasty pearl torch-job, and set to roll on huge KMC's shod with O-ring rubber. Bitchin'!

If there was an award for outstanding use of color, you can bet that Ron Coco would have walked away with it hands down! His high-tech Deuce roadster was dipped in plenty of electric yellow liquid and then treated to a multi-hued fadeaway pattern that was totally effervescent. The 17- and 20-inch Billet Specialties rims are just icing on the cake!

Looking like it rolled off the strip in the late-'60s, Dan Souza's hopped-up '30 Ford coupe with a Deuce grille was downright wicked with its ribbed roof insert, huffed small-block, House of Kolors green metallflake vibe, and Radir wheels with fatty whites. Check out those cheater slicks...neat!

While original '40s-era hot rods from SoCal are getting harder and harder to find, Robin and Dan Sobieski came up with this fabulous Deuce five-window a number of years ago while on the coast. Deep maroon paint, a perfect stance, dressed 21-stud flatty power, and 16-inch lipstick red wires with Firestone rollers make it a standout.

You can always count on Dan "The Bow Tie Guy" Della to deliver a knockout when he comes to town; his '34 Chevy five-window coupe was all that and more! Incredible detail, endless chrome and polish, knock-off wires, and plenty of brandywine and dark cherry glimmer made it unforgettable.

Brian and Tom Driscoll's devilish little hard-core T was just achin' for a straightaway with its Tri-power-fed Chevy 409 waiting to be called into action! Little touches like the flying skull radiator cap, lake pipes, white rolled interior, and cheater slicks make this ride reet.
